U. S. SUBMARINE F-4 WRECKED WITH CREW

Discovered at Bottom of Honolulu Bay—Signals on Sub-Surface Craft Indicate Tanks are Bursted.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

HONOLULU, March 25.—The American submarine F-4 which submerged at 9:15 a. m. today, two miles off Honolulu harbor, had not reappeared at nightfall, and grave fears were expressed for its safety. It carried a crew of twenty-five and is commanded by Lieut. Alfred L. Ede.

Three other submarines, a naval tug and launches are scouring the ocean for miles about the harbor entrance in search of the craft. Naval officials are hopeful that no serious accident has occurred. It is admitted the prolonged absence is causing much apprehension, however. Most of those aboard are married and have families.

Late tonight the F-4 was located, lying at a depth of a hundred and twenty fathoms. Attempts to bring the vessel to the surface with grappling hooks failed. The signal bells were heard from the submerged craft, and this led to fears that the submarine's tanks have bursted, suffocating the crew with sulphuric acid fumes.

SHELLS FALL INTO NEUTRAL TERRITORY

Special to The News
GENEVA, March 25.—Some of the fighting between the Germans and French has been so unmercifully close to Swiss territory, that in an artillery engagement recently five shells fell in Switzerland. Two Swiss engineers, who were working nearby, were knocked down by concussion, although not seriously hurt. On the previous day, the French had established a battery of heavy guns near point 510, close to the Swiss frontier. This was apparently located by a German airplane, but the French officers had seen him reconnoitering and promptly moved their battery back a mile or two the same night. But early the next day the Germans fired for some hours on the spot where the guns had been, and five of their shells came across the border.

Britain's Greatest Battleship, The Queen Elizabeth

Here is the first picture of the greatest battleship in the world—unless the Pennsylvania, recently launched at Newport News, is to be considered her equal. The Queen Elizabeth carries 15 guns, and with these she has battered the forts at the Dardanelles. All during the war vessels of the allies have hovered about the entrance to the Dardanelles. Their guns were not at sufficient range to reach the forts without being in danger. They were waiting for the completion of the Queen Elizabeth, under construction in the British naval yards with four others of her class.

LONDON REPORTS THE SINKING OF THE U-29

Dutch Steamer Sunk by U-28—Russian Reports of Victory Not Confirmed—Italy Makes More Preparations.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

LONDON, March 25.—"The admiralty has good reason to believe that the German submarine, U-29, has been sunk with all hands." This news, following reports that the attack on the Dardanelles has been resumed, that the Russians won an important victory over the Austrians in Bukovina and in the Uzok pass in the Carpathians, gave the people of the allied countries cause for cheerfulness. The admiralty report gave no details where or when the submarine was sunk. This vessel, a fortnight ago, torpedoed six steamers in the Bristol Channel off Scilly islands, within two days. The commander, who spoke English, treated the crews with great consideration. He told a merchant captain that he was the commander of the submarine which torpedoed the British cruisers Aboukir, Cressy and Hogue.

CLAIM SIX SUBMARINE VICTIMS.

This makes the sixth German submarine which the British admiralty has reported sunk, five of them at least by British warships, since the war began. In one case the report was denied by the Germans. A French warship also recently sank one off the French coast.

MERCHANT CAPTAINS CLAIM REWARDS.

Three British merchant captains are claiming rewards offered to merchant men for ramming underwater craft. One claim has been allowed.

U-28 SINKS DUTCH STEAMER.

Simultaneously with the loss of the U-29 came a report of the sinking of the Dutch steamer Medea off Beachy head by the German submarine U-28. It carried a cargo of oranges from Saloniki for London. The admiralty report says the ship was flying the Dutch flag, a Dutch crew was aboard, the name was painted in large letters on the side of the ship. The ship's papers are said to have been taken by the Germans who refused to return them.

REPORTS LACK CONFIRMATION.

News of the Russian victory and of the renewal of the attack on the Dardanelles lacks official confirmation, but comes from sources usually well informed. Russian victories are announced by private telegrams from Pecharest via Rome, which stated that the Russians won a great victory on the Austrian extreme right in Bukovina. New forces have driven the Austrians back in the Uzok Pass. The Russians also have resumed the offensive in the region of the Pilica River. A Petrograd statement says they have taken an important German position. There is heavy fighting in progress along the east Prussian frontier.

ITALY MAKING FURTHER WAR PREPARATIONS.

No important action is reported on the western front. Reports from Italy tell of increased preparations of that country for war. It is added that German diplomats are still hopeful of inducing Austria to make territorial concessions to satisfy Italy and Roumania. King George today visited Admiral Jellicoe's fleet.
